2009 Annual Meeting, July 24 - 26, The Boca Raton Resort & Club

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES: All courses have been designed for physicians and other types of healthcare practitioners involved in pain medicine.

Saturday, July 25, 2009

Intrathecal Drug Delivery

Timothy R Deer, MD, DABPM

At the end of this session, participants will be better able to review the number of candidates for intrathecal delivery; discuss current evidence in support of the therapy; employ current algorithms for drug delivery; employ emerging new non-opioid therapies with a focus on toxins.

Opioid Interactions and New Opioids

Andrea M Trescot MD

At the end of this session, participants will be better able to discuss the growing evidence that a patient's individual genetic control of opioid metabolism affects its efficacy, potential drug interactions and adverse effects; predict potential reactions and interactions; list new opioids that include opioid metabolites that do not require metabolism for activation as well as new formulations of older opioids to increase drug misuse deterrence.

Neuroanatomy for Spinal Cord Stimulation (SCS)

Giancarlo Barolat MD

At the end of this session, participants will be better able to outline the anatomy and physiology of the intraspinal structures as related to SCS; differentiate responses to neurostimulation between various intraspinal structures; describe the characteristics of the thoracic spine and spinal cord as related to SCS, as well as the cervical spine and spinal cord and the cauda equine/conus medullaris; formulate strategies for implantation of SCS devices.

Preoperative, Postoperative Considerations, Complication Management of SCS

Kenneth M Alo MD

At the end of this session, participants will be better able to discuss complications of spinal cord stimulation; prevent common causes of disasters in your practice.

Sunday, July 26, 2009

Panel – Ask the Experts: Open forum for Q&A

Timothy R Deer MD, Andrea M Trescot MD,
Giancarlo Barolat MD, and Kenneth M Alo MD

At the end of this session, participants will be better able to resolve questions not addressed by these speakers in their presentations yesterday.

Sacroplasty-Theory, Technique,& Reimbursement

Jonathan S Daitch

At the end of this session, participants will be better able to outline the history and theory of sacroplasty; differentiate techniques used in sacroplasty vs vertebroplasty; delineate statistical clinical outcomes; discuss various case presentations.

Deborah H Tracy MD MBA

At the end of this session, participants will be better able to outline the history of coverage for this procedure from the period of Medicare noncoverage to its current assignment of a T code.

Percutaneous Diskectomy-Can I get Paid?

Harold J Cordner MD

At the end of this session, participants will be better able to list the various instruments and procedures available for percutaneous diskectomy; discuss the indications and contraindications for the procedure; select appropriate patients for the procedure; negotiate challenges and the current situation with reimbursement for these procedures.

Prescribing Opiates- What You Need to Know in These Troubled Times

Sanford M Silverman MD

At the end of this session, participants will be better able to explain pain and addiction as co-morbid disease states; outline the epidemiology of drug abuse; employ guidelines for prescribing opioids; participate in Florida's Prescription Drug Monitoring Plan.
